SCHOLARSHIPS: GENERAL

American Medical Association (AMA) Minority Scholars Award

The Minority Scholars Award program not only encourages diversity in medicine and alleviates debt, but also rewards commitment to the elimination of health care disparities, outstanding academic achievements, leadership activities, and community involvement.

Approximately eight to thirteen Minority Scholars Awards are given annually. Each is in the amount of a $10,000 scholarship. Nominees must be a current student and a permanent resident or citizen of the U.S. Eligible students from traditionally underrepresented groups in the medical profession include African American/Black, American Indian, Native Hawaiian, Alaska Native, and Hispanic/Latino.

Institutions nominate eligible students. Applications are due in early February. Recipients are announced in June.

American Medical Association (AMA) Physicians of Tomorrow Award

These $10,000 scholarships reward current third-year medical students/individuals who are approaching their final year of medical school. The number of recipients is determined after all applications have been received. Typically, 8-12 recipients in total are selected. Each medical school can nominate one person for each of the different scholarship opportunities (2 nominees in total). Each scholarship category takes into consideration academic excellence and financial need. Each $10,000 scholarship is based on different eligibility requirements.

- Physicians of Tomorrow Award: Selection is based on academic excellence and financial need.
- The Herman E. Diskin, MD Memorial Physicians of Tomorrow Scholarship: Selection is based on a commitment to medicine, humanitarian public service, and compassionate patient care.

Institutions nominate eligible students. Application cycle opens in December and is due in February.
